RICHIEDI MAGGIORI INFORMAZIONI

A French company, specialised in industrial microbiology is offering a range of detection kits with wide applications (All oxygen-tolerant bacteria, Yeast/mould, Coliform). Testers are based on the membrane filtration technique, during which microorganisms form isolated colonies (CFU or Colony Forming Unit). The kits are easy and ready-to-use. Distributors/retailers in hygiene and sanitary controls are searched.

A French company, founded by collaborators who worked for more than 20 years in the field of industrial microbiology, is offering a range of detection kits with wide applications possible : - All oxygen-tolerant bacteria - Yeast/mould - Coliform Testers allow customers to run CFU tests easily in situations where microbiology labs, specialized equipment and technical specialists are not readily accessible. The all-in-one sampling container, filter, and culture media make it really comfortable to use whatever the place. Kits are dedicated to professional use only. The time for incubation is between 24-48 hours minimum to 7 days along to microorganisms we are looking for. And 48-72 hours for incubation before reading the results in 90% of the cases or several readings. The kits are very small (only a few centimetres length and width). Samples can be liquid or a surface if swab is used. In complementary, an analysis and results management application for hygiene monitoring is under development. Through the IoT range, the same devices including a QR Code will allow an optimal use. It will enable collection, management and monitoring of microbiological analysis. It works perfectly with the detection kits devices and also accepts any other type of test (microbiological or not). The company wishes to continue its international development to enlarge its partners portfolio. They are looking for partners within the hygiene and sanitary control fields and/or related domains under distribution agreements.
